Course Description

This Sculpture course meets on Zoom and will focus on the construction of modestly sized abstract sculptures made from card, a material that offers much and can be worked easily in the studio or at home. Participants in this class will make small sculptures with a focus of being true to scale. Interaction between class members will be encouraged through the zoom technology. Projects set will act as starting points that will be open to whatever interpretation the student chooses. The works can be presented as sculptures in the round or frontal, or as relief, or sculptural collages. The addition of color lends itself very well to sculptures made from card particularly when it becomes an integral part of the work.

Learning Outcomes

Students will gain a knowledge of scale and structure along with the possibilities inherent in this varied and versatile material. Several small sculptures will be produced.

Assessable Tasks

Assignments will be set and assessed as they evolve. Participation, inventiveness and willingness to experiment shall be encouraged.

Evaluation and Grading

NYSS MFA students participating in this course will receive grades. Grading is on a High Pass/Pass/Low Performance/Fail basis. To achieve a Pass grade, students must show commitment and learning will be assessed as the class evolves. Effort, enthusiasm, attitude and focus will be reviewed throughout.
